Feinier van Arkel

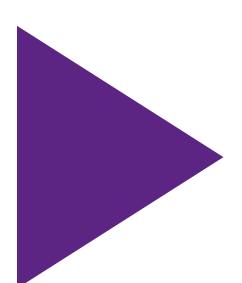

Welcome!

As the Dutch 'hub' of the EU-Promens program, we are proud to welcome you. Over the next two weeks, we, Reinier van Arkel and the Trimbos Institute, will offer you a broad and varied program consisting of prevention, crisis resolution, treatment, and recovery-oriented practices in an ecosystem of (mental) health. You will not only get to know the healthcare professionals working at Reinier van Arkel but also visit organizations with whom we closely collaborate.

About Reinier van Arkel

Reinier van Arkel is a medium-sized provider of specialized mental health care in the Netherlands. With locations in and around 's-Hertogenbosch, including the Jeroen Bosch Hospital and Zorgpark Voorburg in Vught, we offer a wide range of services for individuals with severe psychological and psychiatric vulnerabilities. Founded in 1442, we are the oldest mental health institution in the Netherlands.

Our services include outpatient care, day treatment, and residential care, as well as crisis and intensive home treatment. We also focus on network care, working closely with various partners to provide comprehensive support tailored to the needs of our clients.

Program

We trust that you will form your own impression over the coming weeks. In this overview, you will find the carefully curated day-to-day program. Sometimes it is a program for all participants, and sometimes there is a tailored component just for you.

For each program component, you will find the start and end times, the location where you need to be, and the name and phone number of the contact person.

If you have any questions about the overall EU-Promens program, you can contact us from November 25th to December 6th:

Participants: MargaritaPusch and Katerina Katsouli

You visit Quiet Community Den Bosch. An NGO that connects members, sponsors, and supporters in the region. Together, we alleviate poverty by strengthening each other. We believe that a society becomes stronger, healthier, and richer when we ensure that everyone counts and matters. This gives self-esteem and thus the strength to live instead of just survive. We recruit local sponsors to offer our members something they normally cannot afford: from a second-hand bicycle to a dinner, from a haircut to tickets for a show or football match. Additionally, we give people the chance to (re)discover and use their talents, for example as a volunteer: good for their self-confidence and for the people they help.

He will give an introduction and explanation about accommodating people in this region from shelter to housing.

Saskia van Buren takes you through the VLV podcast series titled “Chickens and Birds of Paradise.” We use this podcast to address target group stigmatization and to nuance public perception of our target group (and our work). On the other hand, the production itself—collecting/listening to stories and taking time for residents—is a research-worthy project where the creators use the storytelling principle to give (more) space to clients/residents to tell their stories outside of primary care conversations. Saskia explains, with (translated) podcast fragments as illustrations, the how and why of this form of storytelling, and the cross-pollination of social care and communication.

Philadelphia supports people with disabilities in leading their own lives. Not the life we imagine for them, not the life their family prefers, but their own life. We do this by providing care based on our core values of love, courage, and mastery. And the client plays the leading role. You bring a visit to a unique location; an old church converted into 33 living spaces. De Rozenkrans is located in the middle of the village, so everything is conveniently close by. At the same time, it is a nice, quiet place for assisted living or to follow day activities.

Lunch included

Attention! There is a considerable travel distance and time involved here. Make sure to check how to reach the location properly.

Wednesday, December 4

Start time: 8:45 AM End time: 4:30 PM

Today is dedicated to the aging population and their related care needs in physical, cognitive, and psychological areas. In the morning, you will participate in two workshops: one on ‘the social approach’ at the Boswijk nursing home location and one on palliative care at the Magnolia location. In the afternoon, you will take part in various program components within Magnolia.

Boswijk is a (home) where you can be yourself and continue your own way of life, even when dementia causes you to lose more and more control over your life. Boswijk is characterized by small-scale living environments and a well-developed community life that residents and their loved ones can join. The dedication of our staff and volunteers, and the involvement and cooperation with family members, is characteristic of ‘our village,’ as we like to see Boswijk.

Magnolia is a residential center for the mostly older people who need intensive 24-hour care due to psychiatric problems, often in combination with somatic health issues. The treatment and guidance focus on maintaining stabilization and skills, ensuring a high quality of life, with well-being and happy living at the forefront. There is a strong emphasis on health and a healthy lifestyle

Program:

Opening by the Head of Social Development (MO) of the municipality of 's-Hertogenbosch with a welcome speech and outline the challenges we aim to tackle together.

Introduction by the Project Leader of the Coordination Point for Persons with Unexplained Behavior and Risk.

A deep dive into the issues surrounding individuals with confused (unexplained) behavior and the risks associated with it, focusing on solutions and collaboration opportunities.

After lunch we will continue with two interactive workshops:

Complex Cases in the Safety House.

Here we will discuss how we can jointly handle difficult situations and individuals within the Safety House, with specific attention to the collaboration between care and safety.

Administrative Approach from the Mayor's Role

This session will focus on the administrative measures the mayor can take, in close cooperation with the police and the Public Prosecution Service, to tackle undermining crime.

This day offers a unique opportunity to work together on a joint approach to urgent social issues such as individuals with unexplained behavior, the intersections between care and safety, and undermining.
